1236 Westview Way, Ann Arbor

Build and Rebuild undertook the project of stylizing this house into an elegant modern home inside and out. This process took form in a number of ways, here are some of the highlights. Converting the stairs into a floating staircase made of iron and hickory. Transforming the space above the garage into a library / office. Remaking three baths into contemporary works. Adding a stone veneer and swapping out aluminum gutters with copper eavestroughs to create a warm exterior. Addressing drainage issues that were creating headaches in the driveway.
